Important message to parents about WINK

Moving from one installation to another is a common occurrence that most military families experience. While these frequent relocations are something military youth become accustomed to, the transition to a new community and school is never easy. Leaving behind friends, neighbors and supportive adults, as well as familiar environments can make youth more vulnerable to negative influences or risk factors. Additionally, some youth may be uncomfortable meeting new friends and may hesitate seeking out opportunities to get involved with their new school or community.

Our Youth Sponsorship Program is designed to assist youth in making a successful transition from one installation to another, being prepared for and able to cope with the stressors of the move, and becoming familiar with their new home. The program will foster in youth a sense of belonging, contribute to their self-worth, and help them develop positive peer and adult relationships in a new environment.

If you believe your youth would benefit from participating in the Welcoming in New Kids program, please have him/her complete the attached form and submit it to the Youth Center. This form may be reproduced or downloaded from our web site, www.100fss.com (Youth Programs).
